Spring is in the air and so are fruit-infused cocktails! Treat your spring fever with these San Diego restaurants that offer cocktails perfectly suited to the season.

Looking for a laidback experience at a neighborhood bar? Look no further than True North Tavern in North Park. Sit back and watch a game on one of their numerous sports bar-style flat screens as you sip on a refreshing spring-inspired cocktail. Made with Hendrick's gin, St. Germain Elderflower Liqueur, pomegranate, cucumber, lime, Simple Syrup and soda, the Edgar Allen Pomegranate is a zesty combination of floral, tart, sweet and sour that will invigorate your taste buds with essential springtime flavors.

Prefer your cocktail with a tropical twist? Miss B's Coconut Club in Mission Beach offers Caribbean-inspired food with an atmosphere to match. The Lusca, made with Miss B's own blend of rum, guava-mango kombucha, Nocella, citrus, honey and papaya, will whisk you into a tropical daydream with a flavor profile of spiced rum, floral and fruity notes, and traces of butterscotch and peonies from the honey infusion.

Hankering for a cocktail in the alluring Gaslamp District? Enjoy barleymash's progressive menu and chic ambiance as you nurse a Watermelon Margarita, made with watermelon-infused Espolon Blanco, lime, sugar and a Tajin-coated rim. The complex blend of sweet, earthy, tart and salty yields a cocktail that is simply springtime in a salted glass.

If welcoming vibes in a progressive neighborhood is on your docket, Uptown Tavern in Hillcrest is your cocktail go-to. Slide into springtime with the Blueberry Basil Gimlet, made from house infused blueberry basil vodka, lemon, lime and sugar. An intermingling of crisp citrus notes, earthy subtleties and fruit-forward flavors, this cocktail will blend seamlessly into your blooming surroundings.

If immersing yourself in SoCal's surf culture is your idea of a good time, The Duck Dive in Pacific Beach has you covered. Lounge in a surf-inspired setting with Duck Dive's Mezcal Me, Maybe? cocktail, made with tequila, mezcal, fresh grapefruit, passion fruit syrup, falernum, lime and guava nectar. A fusion of tarty fruit flavors and tequila's smooth and smoky qualities, this drink will bathe your taste buds in sweet warmth.
